STATE INCOME TAX INFORMATION

Taxpayers in Ulster county should file their returns with District Director Hasbrouck at 515 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

Indignant—My husband, a resident of this state is building a home for his sister in Connecticut. Is it true that he will be allowed to deduct the taxes which he pays there and also exemptions from them as dependents?

Answer—As a resident he is permitted to deduct all taxes other than those for local improvements and income taxes, irrespective of where paid or where the property is located. Exemptions for dependents would only be permitted in case he was the main support of his sisters and they were under the age of 18, or, if over that age, incapable of self support because of physical or mental infirmities.

Widow—I have no family and fell heir to an income of $1,200. Will I have to pay the income tax on this amount?

Answer—Yes. This is an annual distribution which you received as beneficiary.

Attorney—As trustee, I made a payment in 1920 to certain non-residents, which was the first distribution made in five years. The recipients are now in Egypt and I doubt if they will make individual returns. May I make a return for each of these parties?

Answer—If the distribution to each beneficiary amounted to $1,000 or over, you would be required to file an information return as trustee, on form 205. You may also file individual tax returns on form 204 for these non-residents, assuming that the distribution consisted of taxable income. If you believe they had other income from New York state sources with which you are not familiar, you should apply for extensions of time for the filing of their amended returns including such income.

E. A. W.—During 1920 I borrowed $1,516 on policies from life insurance companies. Are any of these amounts taxable?

Answer—No. As a resident you may deduct the interest which you paid during 1920 on account of such loans.

Surgeon—May I deduct the following: (1) Premiums for accident and health insurance, on which policy I am the beneficiary other than in case of death. (2) Premium for policy protecting me against liability for malpractice?

Answer—(1) No. This is a personal expense. (2) If this is the usual and ordinary practice of physicians to protect themselves, the premium paid would be deductible.

Quandary—The corporation in which I was interested, made distribution of dividends in the form of interest on liberty loan bonds. Is this amount taxable?

Answer—Yes. Under such circumstances, interest income from government securities is taxable.

Nephew—At the death of my uncle he provided for a gift to me of securities which were then worth $8,500. Due to delay in settling the estate, I received these six months later, at which time the market value was $10,000. Is the appreciation of $600 taxable?

Answer—No. The original bequest is excluded from your income and its increased value between the date of death of decedent and its receipt by you is not taxable unless such securities are actually disposed of.

Pumber—I bought an old building and made the following expenditures: Are these business expenses—(1) Putting in steel ceiling on main floor. (2) Additional wash room facilities. (3) Larger radiators in shop. (4) Minor repairs.

Answer—None of these are deductible, except No. 4.

Real Estate—In 1920, I paid taxes on my dwelling which were assessed and due in 1917 and 1918, but which due to adverse circumstances I had been unable to pay. May I deduct such taxes from income in reporting for 1920?

Answer—No. Taxes which accrued prior to January 1, 1919, may not be deducted from the income of the year when subsequently paid.

Veterinarian—In my work I am in constant danger of injury from the kick of a horse. May I deduct premium paid for an accident policy covering such risk?

Answer—No. It is a personal expense.

LATEST WRAPS

Afternoon Garments for Afternoon and Evening.

For Dance-Tone and Restaurant Parties Create Demand for Attractive Apparel.

Picturesque wraps—for afternoon as well as evening—are immensely popular this year. The ever increasing number of dance-tone and restaurant parties may be accounted for this. It is that the fashions of the hour are extremely decorative and becoming.

Some of the latest designs for evening wraps are so intricate that ordinary women feel a little afraid of them, but much of the elaboration is in the design itself—and in the things chosen for it is truly the art of living.

Several different materials may be used in these mantles—those intended for afternoon wear as well as evening clothes. This is a specially practical fashion. Old garments, made of good materials, may be taken to the cleaners, freshened up and then completed. In this way very rich and beautiful effects may be obtained without a great outlay of money.

Take for example an exquisite evening wrap recently launched at Monte Carlo by Cecil Sorel. It was long, almost ankle-length, and it was made of several different materials—black tulle, silver tulle, and rust tulle—the latter used for the lining.

In addition to all this there was a shoulder cape, attached to the mantle all round the border, of seal muslin, and this cape was cut in van-dyke. It seemed as though the lower part of the cape depended from a long shoulder yoke, but in reality the cape had been a separate garment. There were two sources of black chintilly, one source bordered with a narrow band of seal muslin, and there was a high Medici collar of the same fur.

REJUVENATE VELVET HATS

Hat May Be Remodeled by Buttonholing Edges Over and Over With Worsted.

A year velvet or felt hat shows signs of wear on the edge of the brim. It may be rejuvenated as well as trimmed by buttonholing the edge, over and over, with contrasting or self-colored worsted. The stitches may be close together or far apart, and be shallow or deep according to the shape to be covered and the effect to be gained. A dot from a colored thread is a good way to indicate the shape between stitches, the needle passing through the hat brim in each dot. By taking stitches of gradual length outlining points or scallops, irregular edges are easily worked. Hat stitches may be finished with a tail and a fancy headed knot to correspond with a hat trimming. By some of the fancy stitchery, novel hat effects may be introduced into a hat, as henna may be used on black velvet; gray Angora wool on blue velvet or any color. Use a large needle which will pierce a suitably large hole to carry the course wool.

Panda, Panda, Panda!

Panda, Panda, Panda! Panda at the sides are also being worn. This hat is especially used in New York and New Orleans. One house is doing an impression of white velvet with a wide band of white velvet or tulle around the crown and sides. Small pearl buttons outline the bandings and top of the crown. Panda, by the way, are very like the bear. One day I saw a street scene of a white bear and a black cat. The cat was on a rubber clapping machine and the bear was on a rubber clapping machine. The cat was on a rubber clapping machine and the bear was on a rubber clapping machine. The cat was on a rubber clapping machine and the bear was on a rubber clapping machine.

NEED HOSPITALS FOR SERVICE MEN

Surgeon General Reports Ex-Soldiers Breaking Down at Rate of 1,000 a Month.

SICK AND WISAGE INCREASE

Washington, Feb. 15.—To properly house and care for the rapidly increasing number of American ex-soldiers who suffer from tuberculosis, mental disease and other afflictions, approximately $10,000,000 is needed, according to a letter written to Senator Ashurst of Arizona by Surgeon General H. C. Cummings of the Bureau of the Public Health Service. At the present time, the surgeon general states, sick and injured men whose conditions are so changed by their service in their country, are receiving care at the rate of about 1,000 per month, and owing to inadequate hospital accommodations, great numbers of them are of necessity being turned out to the streets where they are liable to die.

Washington, Feb. 15.—To properly house and care for the rapidly increasing number of American ex-soldiers who suffer from tuberculosis, mental disease and other afflictions, approximately $10,000,000 is needed, according to a letter written to Senator Ashurst of Arizona by Surgeon General H. C. Cummings of the Bureau of the Public Health Service. At the present time, the surgeon general states, sick and injured men whose conditions are so changed by their service in their country, are receiving care at the rate of about 1,000 per month, and owing to inadequate hospital accommodations, great numbers of them are of necessity being turned out to the streets where they are liable to die.

In his letter to Senator Ashurst the surgeon general says:

"I wish to invite your attention to the fact that since June 2, 1920, the date on which the France bill, to authorize the secretary of the treasury to provide medical, surgical and hospital services and supplies for discharged soldiers, marines, army and navy veterans, and for other purposes, was favorably reported, the number of patients has increased from 17,445 to 22,282 for the week ended January 1, 1921.

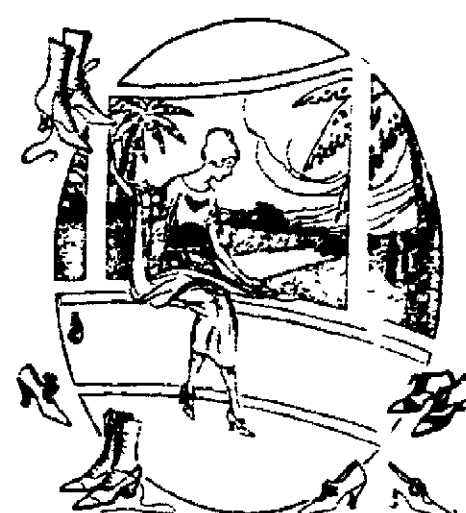

"In the week ended January 1, 1921, there were in hospitals operated by the public health service 12,511 patients, and in hospitals under contract with the public health service 8,781.

"Of this number 12,015 were patients of the war risk insurance bureau. It is understood that there were approximately 1,000 patients of the war risk insurance bureau in hospitals operated by the National House of Invalids and in army and navy hospitals.

"The present rate of increase in patients in hospitals of the public health service is approximately 1,000 per month, and it is expected that before the year is over the number of beds occupied will approximate 20,000 to 25,000. It is estimated that the public health service will be required to care for 20,000 to 25,000 patients in 1922.

"The public health service now has, or is about to have, under operation hospitals providing approximately 10,000 beds. Of this number 10,000 are in hospitals of the public health service and 10,000 are in hospitals of the National House of Invalids and in army and navy hospitals.

The island of Tristan da Cunha is described as "an unsupplied haven of rest for the weary sailor, a haven for those who long for relief from worries of life," by the chaplain of the British cruiser Humber, which has just returned from a visit to that isolated spot.

"No need to worry over money there, for there is none," said the chaplain. "There are no taxes, no government, no lawyers, no doctors, no newspapers, and mail arrives, with luck, about once every two years."

TRACING STOLEN AUTOS

Ulster county, in common with other parts of the state, has suffered from the activity of automobile thieves and every motorist is interested in pending and proposed legislation intended to protect automobiles from the organized gangs who make their living by stealing them.

It is almost impossible to trace stolen cars or to learn whether an automobile has been stolen. If every car throughout the year carried the same license plates issued for it by the secretary of state, the trouble would be minimized, but the thieves offset the car owner's benefit of such plates by procuring false plates before they steal cars. Under the present system ownership of an automobile is not necessary in order to procure a license and set of number plates. Each week brings news of the recovery of stolen cars containing false license plates, and the arrest of automobile thieves frequently is accompanied by the discovery of several extra sets of plates.

The present system of keeping automobile records needs revision. The records should be cross-indexed in the same way that big business houses using modern filing systems cross-index their records. These records should be indexed according to license numbers, names of persons to whom licenses were issued, make of car, manufacturer's number and motor number, and each card in each index should contain all the information shown on the application for a license.

Then if such information were made easily accessible when telephone inquiries were made, a valuable start would have been taken to check automobile thieves. If such cross-indexes have been made, police and other officials have failed to find them.

A second step would be to stamp on each number plate furnished by the state, the name of the car, manufacturer's number and motor number stated on the application for license. This would not be particularly difficult. It would mean adapting to the heavy material used in making license plates the familiar slot machines by which anybody can punch his name, initials or address on a strip of metal, which operation requires only a few seconds. A competent operator working beside a clerk who filled out license blanks could have the plates punched by the time the license was ready for delivery or mailing. The figures necessarily need not or could not be big, but they would be there.

A third step would be a law requiring garage owners upon discovering a discrepancy between the information furnished by the license plate with the information furnished by the automobile itself to hold the car and report promptly to the police. Communication with the automobile bureau should enable the police to learn to whom the license plates were issued and to determine promptly whether the car had been stolen.

Such a plan might need to be simplified or modified but it is simple and inexpensive. When the state levies a tax on hundreds of thousands of automobiles there is a presumption it will afford protection against organized banditry, and a proposed increase in automobile taxes would have less opposition if there was assurance of protection. The foundation of the plan outlined, however, is a comprehensive cross index record system kept up-to-date by the automobile bureau and made easily accessible to local officials in all sections of the state. Such a system alone would work wonders.

Shifting license plates is a simple operation and by doing it the automobile bandits escape detection. To lose the information furnished by the car and motor corresponds with the information furnished by the license plate, there should be a presumption that the automobile has been stolen.

The development of serious differences of opinion and conflicting views between Federal, State and city officials in the handling of typewriter-affected businesses evidence on the part of New York points out the difficulties which are bound to arise if the State of New York tries to place on the State and municipalities the responsibility for enforcing the Volstead act by enacting a practical replica of that law. Divided responsibility means no responsibility. That is true in every business and there is no reason why it should not be true also in public life. No man can be placed in jeopardy twice for the same offense under our system of criminal law. Can there be perfect co-ordination between Federal, State and municipal government? Who shall determine the superior authority? A law which makes changes in the ordinary habits of American people as does the Volstead act cannot be seriously enforced in a month or a year. Time is required to perfect the legal machinery for prosecution of violations. Add to this numerous questions of authority with possible inclinations in some quarters to "pass the buck," the legal safeguards for the accused and the practical difficulty of enforcement of any law becomes apparent. But in the meantime the American people will continue to pay taxes to maintain a Federal organization and also pay increased local taxes for duplicating work which should be entrusted entirely to the Federal government. Help to the policemen can be given effectively without donning the uniform ourselves.

NATURAL GAS IS BEING EXHAUSTED

Supply Will Last Only 20 Years, Warns Engineering Expert.

SITUATION REALLY ACUTE

Important That Exhaustive Investigation Be Started to Determine the Most Practical Solution of Industrial Problems So Vitality Dependent on Our Natural Gas Supply—By-product Producer Gas Seen as Possible Remedy—Low Temperature Distillation Processes Receive Attention.

America's natural gas supply is being exhausted by criminal negligence and reckless extravagance, according to Prof. Robert H. Fernald, head of the department of mechanical engineering in the University of Pennsylvania. In a survey for the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, he has found that the use of by-product producer gas to replace an acute national situation.

"The rapid exhaustion of our natural gas supply through criminal negligence and reckless extravagance in order to conserve what little we have left brings us abruptly to a realization of the situation and leads us seriously to query regarding possible substitutions for this remarkable natural fuel," says Dr. Fernald, formerly engineer in investigations upon gas producers for the United States geological survey and the bureau of mines.

Situation is Acute.

"The situation is acute. It is therefore imperative that we begin exhaustive investigations to determine the most practical solution of the industrial problems that have been for many years past so vitally dependent upon our natural gas supply. The results reached through such investigations may lead into channels quite different from those under consideration at the present time, as the necessity of the situation may develop unthought of possibilities.

"With the limited amount of study that has been given to this problem to date, the most conspicuous source of relief seems to be through the development of by-product producer gas. This, of course, is practically an unknown field in the United States. Sporadic attempts to develop interest have come to the attention of engineers from time to time, but no serious study of the situation in its relation to the larger commercial developments of the country has as yet been undertaken.

"In Europe we find by-product producer gas somewhat extensively used and the large central station near the mines, recovering the by-products from the fuel and distributing the gas under pressure for several miles through the industrial districts, and thus a dependable source of supply.

"Through the abundance of our fuel supply and our indifference to the needs of future generations we have been ruthlessly extravagant and wasteful of our fuel resources during the past decades. An appreciation of the necessity of recovering by-products has not recently received thoughtful consideration from those agencies that are most seriously interested in the problems of fuel conservation.

Study and Research.

"At the present moment low temperature distillation processes are attracting more than casual attention. Investigation may show a combination of low temperature distillation and the manufacture of by-product producer gas to be a distinctly economical and commercial solution of our natural gas problems, as these processes, on the one hand, lead to the maximum by-product recovery, and, on the other, to a supply of gas commercially adaptable to heating and general industrial processes.

"Our natural gas situation is a serious one. The solution requires more than the casual financial interest of the private dividend seeker. It requires systematic study and research involving the expenditure of large sums of money. It is a problem of national importance and must be attacked on a broad basis. It calls for the best thought and most serious consideration of the ablest experts available, financially supported from sources that will guarantee the results of the investigation to be free from industrial and commercial bias. "It has been estimated that two decades will see the total exhaustion of the natural gas supply. We cannot afford to wait longer."

AFFECTIONATE PHEASANT

It Keeps at Heels of Rabbit Hunter Who Did Not Have a Dog.

Bruno Grummel of Tiffin, O., walked a few miles into the country to hunt rabbits. He did not have a dog, but when he entered the woods he was joined by a rock pheasant that hung at his heels all the afternoon and played dog for him.

Grummel did not dare shoot the bird because it was protected by law. On returning home Grummel tried walking through woods and bush to lose the bird, but it trailed him two paces to the rear.

Friends witnessed an odd sight when they saw Grummel walking into the city with the bird waddling sedately behind him.

Hunting Gazelles From Autos.

The speed of the gazelle has always made it exceedingly difficult to hunt them, but now it is a common thing to see gazelle hunters in automobiles darting across the desert of Morocco in chase of these speedy animals. The results of the hunt are invariably greater than when horses are used, because the animals become tired out before overtaking the gazelle.

FIGURED IN HISTORIC PAST

Representation of Monarch of the Time of Abraham Now in Pennsylvania Museum.

In the dim old days of the patriarch Abraham people looked very much as they do now, judging from the oldest representation of human figures unearthed by the telling brotherhood of archaeologists. Two striking figures, one standing and one seated, are included in the elaborate design of the clay seal, or "postage stamp," which has excited the enthusiasm of Dr. Le-gram, curator of the Babylonian section of the University of Pennsylvania museum.

Dr. Le-gram has figured out the inscriptions of the little tablet as indicating that it dates from the period when "Ur of the Chaldees," mentioned in Genesis in connection with the history of Abraham, was a flourishing kingdom. And he finds reason to believe that the seated figure, decorated with flowers of beautiful acornoid plaiting, is a portrait of his majesty Ish-Sin, the last king of Ur and possibly an intimate friend of the Father of Israel.

To the modern eye both figures are remarkably well drawn and lifelike in attitude, especially considering the fact that they were modeled in clay on a very small scale. Dr. Le-gram thinks the tablet served the double purpose of a seal and a postage stamp on a sack of money forwarded to a banker named Shulpaie by his reverence the high priest of the temple of Ur, at which Abraham worshipped.

Daily Ration of an Oyster. It has been calculated that an oyster five inches long consumes one-twelfth of a cubic inch of solid food daily, and to obtain it must filter eight or nine gallons of sea water.

LESS VALUABLE

Nearly 10,000,000 Live Head in U. S. January 1, 1921. These on Same Date 1920, According to Estimates Based Upon Reports of Agents of Bureau of Crop Estimates.

Nearly 10,000,000 live head of live stock were on farms in the United States on January 1, 1921, than a year preceding, according to estimates based upon reports of agents and correspondents of the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. Horses decreased about 603,000 head, or 2.9 per cent; mules decreased slightly, 42,000, or 0.8 per cent; milk cows decreased 293,000, or 1.3 per cent; other cattle decreased 1,880,000, or 1.2 per cent; swine decreased 5,078,000, or 7.1 per cent; and sheep decreased 2,047,000, or 4.3 per cent.

The total numbers on farms and ranges January 1, are estimated as follows: Horses, 20,183,000; mules, 4,999,000; milk cows, 23,321,000; other cattle, 42,870,000; swine, 66,649,000; and sheep, 45,067,000.

The results of the 1920 census of live stock have been issued for a few states only; the two sets of figures (census and crop estimates) are not made from the same basis, and therefore are not comparable, in that the bureau of crop estimates figures are the result of applying yearly estimated changes to the census figures of 1910, which were taken on April 15, instead of on January 1, as was done in 1920. No attempt has been made to readjust the bureau's 1920 figures to the new census basis in the few states where census figures have been published. Readjustments will be deferred until the census will be complete for all states.

The total value of live stock has declined $2,271,578,000 or 26.7 per cent during the year, that is, from a total of $8,507,145,000 on January 1, 1920, to $6,235,569,000 on January 1, 1921. This decline is due partly to the reduction in numbers, but more to the lower value per head.

Horses, with a value of $32.45 per head as compared with $94.42 a year ago, are lower than they have been since 1906. The total value of horses is estimated at $1,564,166,000, which is $298,337,000, or 15.3 per cent less than a year ago.

Mules have declined in price relatively more than have horses, due, probably, to the depression in the cotton states, where mules are largely used. The January 1 price, $115.72, is the lowest value since 1916, whereas the value a year ago, $147.07, was the highest on record. The total value of mules is $578,475,000, a reduction of $162,927,000, or 22 per cent, as compared with a year ago.

Milk cows have declined 24.8 per cent in value per head, from $35.11 to $26.37, and in total value have declined $518,228,000, or 25.8 per cent, from $2,010,128,000 to $1,491,900,000. Other cattle have declined 27.2 per cent in value per head, from $43.22 to $31.41; and in total value have declined $587,530,000, or 30.4 per cent, from $1,934,185,000 to $1,346,655,000. All cattle have thus declined $1,105,748,000, or 23 per cent, from $2,944,313,000 to $1,838,565,000.

Swine have declined in value per head 31.7 per cent, from $19.01 to $12.99; and in total value have declined $497,636,000 or 36.6 per cent, from $1,363,269,000 to $865,633,000.

Sheep have declined in value per head 39.1 per cent, from $10.52 to $6.41, and in total value have declined $206,928,000, or 41.8 per cent, from $495,860,000 to $288,932,000.

A JOLLY MASQUERADE

At Crosspatch and Bally Orchestra in New York.

A brilliant array of costumes could be seen at Crosspatch Community House on Lincoln's birthday, on the occasion of the masked ball.

Fully sixty people were on the dancing floor and the spectators lined the benches.

Dr. Arnold H. Sutherland of New York appeared in bowing robes and turban as the Caliph of Baghdad. His wife, who is very pretty, wore a yellow satin and gold lace costume.

Miss Blanche MacDonald and Miss Alice Dolan, in brilliant attire, were her attending ladies.

Mrs. Sutherland, after supper, gave an interpretive dance that made one understand why she had been mentioned with Mrs. Vernon Castle in the recent years of dance popularity in New York.

Miss Ella Martin was given the first prize for the most original costume, designed and made by the wearer. She was "My Valentine" in a white tulle gown, studded with crimson hearts.

Miss Margarette Gould, as a French ladies' maid, was awarded the second prize.

Among the gentlemen, Will Hoffman captured the first prize as a tramp. His array of patches was really both artistic and funny.

James W. Hoche was awarded second prize. He was a Pullman porter, black as ebony, with white jacket and cap. He went around all evening making himself useful with a white broom. The judges of costumes for the men were Dr. A. H. Sutherland, Captain E. Franklin Green and Harvey Greenwald. For the ladies, Mrs. Ray Quick, Mrs. Anna Gould and Mrs. Harvey Greenwald.

A supper of roasted beef and cabbage, roasted potatoes, coffee and coffee was so popular that the ladies could only get cold meat sandwiches and cake.

The new orchestra did not work well and had to be supplemented by phonograph and violin. Next day Dr. Sutherland and Captain Green overhauled the instrument and found what is known as the "trumpet band" slipped with dust. Mrs. Green had been giving lessons on the orchestra to groups of visitors for the preceding week and had explained to them the dust which accumulates from the player's lips. The instrument is now in perfect order and will play for the Washington's Birthday party.

GROWS GRASS AND KILLS WEEDS

Mrs. F. E. W. Darrow, committee of the Ulster Garden Club, writes that discovery of the long sought fertilizer that will grow grass and kill weeds is announced by the experiment station of Rhode Island State College as the result of twenty years of research.

The realization of the dream of gardeners the world over, a weedless lawn, is possible without trouble or expense, according to the official statement, merely by the use of ammonium sulphate instead of nitrate soda in the annual application of fertilizer. "Slowly but surely the weeds will disappear and the lawn will become the even velvety green that is the envy of every neighbor."

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Osterhout entertained friends on Wednesday evening.

Pictures of South America.

At the Sunday five o'clock service Dr. Cady will show eighty pictures to illustrate the work of Christian missions in South America. These slides are colored and give a clear idea of the country and people. The facts are of interest to us as neighbors of South America.

As the tag end of winter approaches, watch out that the meals are not lacking in vegetables.

In planning the papering this spring, distinguish between warm and cold colors. No dark room should be made gloomy with greys or deep blues, and bright tans are equally distressing on the walls of a sunny room.

When sewing in a room with a carpet or large rug on the floor, an old sheet tucked over the working space will catch threads and scraps. It is quickly and easily taken up when the work for the day is finished and makes sweeping and dusting unnecessary.

Basketball at Allaben Saturday. Despite Rumors.

Through the resignation of a few members of the Onondaga Five rumors are being circulated that there would be no basketball game at the Shandegnon Hall, Allaben, Saturday evening, February 19. The management of Shandegnon Hall announces that the Phoenix girls and the Onondaga Five, composed of the young ladies from Shandegnon and Allaben will positively play on Saturday evening, February 19, at 8:30 o'clock. There will be dancing immediately after the game, music by Mead's orchestra.

FRENCH CLAIMS RELATIVES HERE

Leroy French who gave Albany as his present address and said that his father and stepmother lived at 420 Liberty street, Kingston was arrested in Poughkeepsie Thursday with his son, John Perry, also of Albany, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons in violation of the Sullivan law.

According to information received by the Poughkeepsie police the young men hired an automobile in New Jersey to take them to Beacon. When they reached that city, it is alleged that they refused to pay the bill, and hired another car in Beacon to take them to Poughkeepsie. The New Jersey chauffeur made a complaint to the Beacon police. When searched a Colt automatic revolver was found on each of them.

The only French family in this city denies any relationship to Leroy. The house numbers on Liberty street run only to 76.

How Do The Dead Speak To Us?

In spite of apparent indifference, there are great vital questions throbbing in men's minds today. There are questions of life and death, of the deathless life, and of possible communication from the great beyond. Dr. Baragwanath will preach in the St. James Methodist Church on Sunday night on "How do the dead speak to us?" Those who attend at that time will hear some more of the old-time melodies which have been a feature of the Sunday evening services in St. James's Church.

MANY ASK THAT CHANDLER STAY

Prominent Men Throughout State Regret Kingston Mayor's Decision to Leave State Police—Legislative Leaders Consider Enlarging Powers of Superintendent and Increase in Pay.

Efforts are being made by prominent men throughout the state to bring about the continuance of Major George F. Chandler's leadership of the state police. Major Chandler filed his resignation about two weeks ago giving as his reason his desire to devote more time to the practice of law in this city. The resignation is to take effect March 1.

According to this morning's Knickerbocker Press "friends" of Major Chandler stated last night that it is virtually settled that he will continue to head the troopers, and it is known that the personnel of the state organization is jubilant over the prospect of his retaining the superin-
tendency.

At the Chandler residence last morning it was stated that no word of this nature had been received from Major Chandler who has been in Albany this week directing the work of the troopers. It was stated, however, that he had been urged by state officials to remain in his post, but that he was still desirous of resigning the office to devote more time to his profession.

The Knickerbocker Press states that he sent his resignation to Governor Miller, and the virtual acceptance of the resignation, some of the biggest men in the state have let it be known they would greatly regret Major Chandler's retirement from the superintendency. These men pointed out, it is said, that Major Chandler had built up an efficient organization, that he was held in the highest esteem by his men, and that his troopers, to a man, were intensely loyal to their chief.

To make any move that would interrupt the present organization, it was made known would be looked upon generally as a serious mistake.

It is known Major Chandler had a conference with Governor Miller this morning, but what transpired could not be learned from either official. Although Major Chandler declined to accept the position Governor Miller had offered him to stay as chief of the state police, it is understood that other authentic sources have an up-to-date plan.

According to plan of the troopers, it is reported, legislative action is now considering amendments to the state police act, which will enlarge the powers of the state troopers' superintendent. The creation of one and possibly two new police troops is under consideration.
There is also being discussed a plan to transfer additional duties to the state police, under the so-called Fear-not law, which transfers the powers and duties of the game wardens of the conservation commission to the state police department.

Officials who are anxious to keep Major Chandler in service point out that some remunerative increase must be provided for, to offset the major's financial loss in continuing the state work in the face of a more lucrative medical practice in Kingston and neighboring cities. The salary of superintendent is $5,000 a year.

Despite the fact Governor Miller and the leaders have been concerned over the resignation of Major Chandler, there is another added problem in that no candidate has been mentioned, with the exception of Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of the state military training. It is understood General Andrews is not now anxious for the police superin-
tendency.

Major Chandler is now in personal charge of the strike at Albany and Troy. During the week he inspected the different units on duty, and is immensely pleased with the way the situation has been handled. There are now 150 troopers on duty in that district.

PORT KNEW.

Port Knew, Feb. 15.—Miss Helen McCluskey and Miss Alice Dunn of Kingston spent Tuesday with Mr.
and Mrs. J. F. Dorr on Stout street.

monia at his home on Main street.

Miss Mary F. Conroy who has been the guest of her parents, Mr.
and Mrs. William Mahle, on Tilden street, has returned to New York city.

The supper served by the W. C. T. U.
in the chapel of the Methodist church was faultlessly served, and all felt amply repaid for having participated in it. The entertainment given in the auditorium of the church was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

Mrs. Charles Bishop of Kingston was the guest of Mrs. Elsworth Dunn on Main street Wednesday.

Miss William Neice is ill of tonsillitis at her home on Main street.

Mrs. Thomas Dunn of Kingston

Marchmonte Leaves Hospital.
After an illness of a month, Judge Charles Marchmonte was able to leave the Manhattan General Hospital at Poughkeepsie Thursday.
He was taken to his home where he will remain for another month under the care of his physicians.

Making Talking Machines Records.
The method of recording phonograph records is as follows: The record is first placed on a wax master record, by a process similar to elec-trotyping. This record is then transferred to a metal master plate. It is from this plate that the records are pressed. An authorized number of records can be produced from a single plate. When several artists make records they use one or more of these metal plates.

GAIN IN FARM WAGES

Pay for Labor Has Tripled in the Last Twenty Years.

Hired Men Get Four Times as Much for Their Services as They Did in 1870.

Washington.—Wages of hired men on farms have more than doubled in the last ten years, tripled in the last twenty years and were more than four times higher last year than they were in 1870. These changes are shown by statistics of the Department of Agriculture.

Wages paid by the month, without board averaged $64.95 for the country as a whole last year, ten years ago they averaged $27.00 and in 1870 they were $10.45.

Day labor at harvest time last year averaged $4.86, without board, and at other than harvest time $3.70. Ten years ago harvest-time labor was paid $1.82 and at other than harvest time was paid $1.13 and non-harvest time labor 81 cents a day.

California and Nevada farmers paid their labor the highest prices without board, the average in those states last year having been $107 a month. The lowest average was in Mississippi, where $41 was paid. The average for the country as a whole was $46.95;
the northern Atlantic states averaged $70.54, the south Atlantic $50.56, the northeast central states $70.00, the northwest central states $71.70, the south central states $71.94 and the far western states $59.42.

For harvest-time labor, without board, North Dakota paid the highest rate with $7.40 a day, while at other than harvest time South Dakota paid the highest rate with $5.90 a day.

FUTURE INDIAN BELLE

Preparing for the days when she will undoubtedly be the belle of the valley, this maid of India is undergoing first stages of ornamentation. Note the old palm leaf hat stuck through the lobe of the ear and the metal ornaments on the nose. As the girl grows older larger rolls are substituted, gradually enlarging the hole in the ear lobe.

FLAGS TRAIN, AVERTS WRECK

Unidentified Hero Disappears After Saving Train From Being Thrown in Ditch.

Casper, Wyo.—Westbound Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train No. 30 was narrowly saved from a serious wreck by an unidentified man who flagged the train as it was approaching a part of the track a few miles east of here that had been torn up. The train was traveling fifty miles an hour at the time and railroad officials said that the train would have been derailed completely had it struck the torn-up track.

Who was responsible for the attempted wrecking of the Burlington train is still a complete mystery, according to police and railroad officials. It was thought possible that the person who flagged the train was originally one of the party intending to wreck it, for when the train stopped and its crew made an investigation no one could be found.

The spikes had been pulled out of the ties and the rails torn up completely for nearly 100 feet, only four miles from Casper.

"NO POCKETS" AID TO THEFT

Tacoma Probation Officer Says Boys
Steal From Women, Rarely
From Men.

Tacoma, Wash.—Tacoma women's clothing is not provided with pockets resulting in increasing among the juvenile population, in the opinion of J.
H. Healy, county probation officer.
Having no place in which to store their loot, boys are forced to hide the stolen goods in their pockets, and the average woman suspects them to be thieves, and reports of crime are started by them.

Mr. Healy reports that almost every day complaints are made of boys stealing money from women, but that very rarely does a boy steal from a man.

Water Power Development.
If the State of Niagara were to try to build a dam across the river, it would supply energy equal to 2,000,000 horsepower, while on the upper Niagara about 2,000,000 each mile of water should be available.

FACE TELLS TRUTH

Not Infrequently Reveals One's Calling to Observer.

Characteristics Look to Partly Developed by Nature of Work Which is Individual's Occupation.

It seems to be pretty well agreed among those in a position to speak authoritatively that associated with the various occupations in life there is undoubtedly a type of face which more or less betrays the calling of its owner.

Medical men, especially in hospital practice, find acquaintance with these types valuable. They may not be able, with the shrewdness of Sherlock Holmes or of other acute persons, to read a man's past, present and future by a glance at him in the street, but they are able to gauge with considerable accuracy how far the history of the case, as given by the patient, is a truthful one, and how far it fits with his probable occupation in life.

Calling must certainly have some influence over the physiognomy of the man, the butler or the groom. Each frequently possesses a type of face which wears so characteristic an expression as to make it not difficult to identify the vocation accompanying it.

We speak also of the legal face, the medical face, the dramatic face and the military face. This is merely a broad classification, and the best authorities disbelieve the claims of the keen observer that he can differentiate to a finer degree.

There are tales of hospital physicians who claim to be able to say from a glance at the face that this or that man is a butcher, a grocer, a bank clerk, a lawyer's clerk, a commercial traveler, a stock broker, and so on. It is thought that the fame of these medical men as rough and ready detectives has been largely manufactured for them by enthusiastic friends. But that many medical men do possess great insight into the occupations of those who come before them is true.

The question is often debated whether physiognomy is a growth of vocation or whether it shows that the vocation chosen is in accordance with the particular capacity and ability of the person to whom it belongs. In other words, if the lawyer does not show the "legal face," the aspiring minister the "ecclesiastical face," the medical student the "physician's face," the soldier the "military face," the question arises: Is that a sign that they have mistaken their calling?

Is the man who "doesn't look a bit like a doctor" likely to fail because his physiognomic qualification is wanting? Or will he, whatever his original features, gradually come to acquire the type of the profession to which he belongs?

The answer to the question is, of course, that both theories are right. A certain kind of face, the so-called scientific face, is so often seen among medical students as to prove that the owner of that cast of countenance is likely to adopt medicine as a career. Conversely, whatever the original cast of features a medical man may have possessed, the anxious, delicate and absorbing work of medical practice will put a stamp upon them.

Rat Heroes.

From Paris comes the news that the authorities are making war on rats. But the despised rat once did the French a good turn, according to Colonel Repington's history of the war. He says: "On the parapets of the front trenches are what look like window flower boxes. They contain chemical materials for making a smoke screen to lift the German gas when it comes. All the rats in the trenches congregate round these smoke boxes when the gas comes, as they realize that they save themselves from suffocation. This process of lifting the German poison gas was discovered quite by chance. During a gas attack some straw was set on fire by accident and forced the German smoke up. The rats came in swarms to squat round the burning straw and gave the French the hint."

Energy in the Atom.

The knowledge of radioactivity, which has been growing since the discovery of the X-ray and of radium, has revealed the atom as a tremendous storehouse of energy. The atomic energy contained, for example, in the two-inch piece of chalk with which the lecturer makes his diagrams is calculated to be 300,000,000 foot tons—enough to raise 100,000 tons 2,000 feet. At present we do not know how to liberate the power. We know that it exists only by observing the spontaneous disintegration of radioactive substances; but knowledge sometimes comes quickly; persons now living may see the day when atomic energy will be used.—Youth's Companion.

Grand and Sublime.

"On what grounds did she seek divorce?"
"She claimed her husband forced her to ride naked on a motor-cycle."
"Did she get her divorce?"
"Certainly. And the judge told her with tears in his eyes that she was entitled to attorney."—Stratford Age-Herald.

Suspension.

"I met your husband today and he was telling me that he is in love with his work."
"Was he, indeed? I must make a look in at the office."

Commonsense Repetition.

It is reported that from a tenth to a quarter of the cost of foodstuffs in the United States goes to pay for losses and other expenses that are absorbed every moment of being used a second time.—Brooklyn Eagle.

WAS OUT TO SAVE MONEY

Mrs. Newbridge Had It All Figured, to Her Own Satisfaction, at Any Rate.

"Yes, it does, as you say, give rather an air to the flat," agreed the almost new husband. His wife had suited herself on the arm of his chair surveying their latest acquisition, the baby grand piano, which filled three-fourths of the living room.

"And now if we only had one of those fifty one-arm floor lamps," named the almost new husband's bride. "Why, Bettina, it was only yesterday that you argued the piano would finish the room without having anything else," protested the almost new husband. "That was one of the arguments you used to wheedle me into buying."

"Well, of course, it saves us having a luscious blue plush bed-lavenport, or a graceful chair or lounge or a library table," she defended. "There, simply isn't room in this apartment for much besides the piano. It really is an economy in the end. But a lamp is different. You know that a grand piano is not complete without a floor lamp. And while we are at it we might as well get one of the newest kind. Just think how cozy we would look with you sitting peacefully under the new lamp while I play to you every evening!"

"Hm!" crossed the almost new husband. "The next thing you'll be telling me that a grand piano requires an oriental prayer rug under the pedals, a Persian scarf thrown across the bench and a case of delicate-smelling roses in constant attendance. I'm rather surprised that you haven't demanded another apartment with a piano room for your part!"

"It would be nice," agreed the bride, falling to note the touch of sarcasm in the voice of her husband. Then she called her fortune over some. "Just think how much money it will save us on moving. By staying here we shall save the cost of the piano, the lamp and the rug and the roses and the case of roses—exactly 50 cents a day!"

"By the way," said the almost new husband, "we mustn't forget to get a new lamp. Last week Mr. Harry Newbridge is on order. Do you think the piano would make a set-off if it alone just once?"

think the piano would make a set-off if it alone just once?"

"Oh, I guess not," answered Betty absent-mindedly. Then she turned her head for a moment. "You know, Billy, I can't expect you to give up going out entirely, at least until I learn to play better. I have heard of a splendid teacher at $10 an hour and I really think, to be worthy of such an instrument, I should take lessons!"

"It's not the original cost, it's the upkeep," said the almost new husband. "Come along, my dear, to the movies."

House of 1,000 Rooms.

A maze which forms a happy hunting ground for robbers, is the house formerly occupied by the minister of war in Vienna, says a correspondent. The great size of the thousand roomed house evidently attracts the attention of thieves and the military and police seem unable to keep them out. Ornaments, pictures, tapestries, everything and anything ever to the door knobs and knockers are constantly being carried away. "When a thief, in the course of his wanderings, meets anyone, he simply pretends to have come on business and goes on until he comes to an unoccupied room, then he quickly gathers together everything he can lay his hands on and departs. In many cases the robbers have an accomplice in the street to whom articles are thrown from the window."

Cream-Colored Notes.

It is rather curious to find dead notes lying about everywhere, with faded and worn faces, as if they were a common sight from Scotland. I found a field, and at the exit I counted no fewer than 22 notes in a heap. These had evidently been thrown there by a local traveler as useless lumber. More curious still, I came on what may be called the wrong notes. A gardener had trapped four of these rodents of a decided cream color. No portion of the bodies gave signs of natural coloring. The gardener said he supposed there were more on his premises, but he had failed to catch them at the date he exhibited the four rodents to me.

Davy Jones.
Among sailors Davy Jones is a common name for death, but a sailor or times it was a name for the evil spirit, who was supposed to preside over the demons of the sea. Davy Jones was thought to be in all storms, and was held to be seen at times, a being of gigantic height, showing three rows of teeth in his enormous mouth, fiery eyes, and nostrils which emitted blue flames. The ocean is still referred to by sailors "Davy Jones' Locker."

Success at Last.
"Ah," said the golfer, who was skating, as the ice was very rough, "at last I have devised a perfect follow through."—Boston Transcript.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BEAUTY.

"The boy and the girl," said Daddy, "who were off on adventures spent a night in the woods, covered up by Mrs. Wood Elf's best blankets of leaves and lying upon her guest-beds made of moss."

"I know you want to know why I can be both ugly and beautiful, and why it is that when you know me you think I'm beautiful, and when you first know me you don't think so," Mrs. Wood Elf said.

"Did you ever hear the old saying about beauty being skin deep?"

"The boy and girl nodded their heads."

"We never liked the saying much," said the boy. "It sounded too fine."

"That's the whole trouble," said Mrs. Wood Elf. "That is why I can only be seen now by those who are adventuring and traveling toward the House of Secrets."

"You see I'm beautiful really. I like folks and boys and girls, and I like a good time and I enjoy myself. I work hard and I play hard. Oh, Mr. Wood Elf and myself do play sometimes!"

"But that saying got around and people twisted it and turned it, and when they wanted to be rather cross and disagreeable they often would almost spoil it by being so patronizing with it. That disgusted me so that I kept out of the way, for the saying is a true one and when taken in the right way is worth hearing."

"Spent a Night."

"I said I was really beautiful. So I am to you, because you both like me. You saw that I was sociable and hospitable, and that I was delighted when the Giant brought you to call on me."

"But it is not the beauty of face that counts, for you think I'm beautiful now, and that I was very ugly before. Beauty is only skin deep, and so is ugliness. Handsome is as handsome does—too! All the old sayings are so, and they will stay so, if only folks don't twist them all around and use them against others, when they should use them for themselves many times."

"My ugliness is only skin deep! And you think I'm beautiful, for you've seen more than my face. But gracious, here I am talking so much."

"I know you'd like to sleep, too. The smell of spruce helps put people to sleep. It is so pleasant."

"Yes, my ugliness is only skin deep! And you think I'm beautiful, that is so nice!"

"You've almost forgotten my ugly face! Joy!"

"Now you've seen what the old saying really means!"

"We have indeed," said the boy.

"We must certainly have," agreed the girl. "And it has been fine."

"So they saw what the old saying about beauty being only skin deep meant," said Daddy.

"They certainly did," laughed Nancy.

"And Daddy?" asked Nick.

"Yes? What is it?" Daddy asked.

"I wonder if I could have all the adventure stories written down and pasted in my big scrap book?"

"Indeed you may," said Daddy.

"And I'll tell you what I'll do."

"I'll write out the stories before I tell them to you, and then I'll send out a copy, so many more copies may be had for boys and girls all over the country."

"Surely they would want to hear of some of the adventures."

"Then I'll make a copy for Nancy's scrap book and a copy for Nick's scrap book."

"And I'll read one of these copies every once in a while until we hear that our two adventures have reached the House of Secrets. Then we'll have to give more attention to the animals and the birds, for they wouldn't want you to forget that they're always, always, always having adventures."

"They'd never want you to forget that."

"We never will," said Nick.

"Never," chimed in Nancy.

How Quietly Relieved Teddy.

Teddy was suffering from an aching tooth, and the rest of the family was suffering from Teddy's howls and imprecations. Much against his will the little chap finally accompanied his mother to the dentist.

"Did you get much relief when you went to the dentist?" I asked him that evening.

"You bet I did," responded Teddy. "I got relief as soon as I got there, 'cause the dentist wasn't home."

INFANT'S BODY FOUND IN SATCHEL

The body of a three week's old baby girl, apparently the child of wealthy parents, was found Wednesday, in a handbag on the bank of the Wallkill, west of the Washington street bridge, Poughkeepsie.

Coroner John Card who is conducting an investigation believes that the baby was suffocated and thrown from an automobile, either by its parents or kidnappers.

The body was found by Emmet Green. The child was dressed in an expensive lawn dress of the most delicate texture. On its head was a silk hood trimmed with hand embroidery. The baby was wrapped in an all wool blanket, having the figure of rabbits worked around the edge in pink silk. No marks of identification were found on the body or on the clothing.

TO COUNTERACT JAZZ.
Musical Memory Contest For That Purpose.
The national bureau for the advancement of music which is composed not only of leading musicians but also of some of the leading educators of the country is rendering a great service to public education and morals by encouraging in our schools an appreciation of good music. Music like everything else in life is good or bad according to the use we make of it. There has lately sprung up a craze for vulgar music for that, in what cheap jazz music is. It is far from elevating and refining the human emotions such as music expected to do. To counteract the evil influence of this sort of noise, the leading educators and musical artists all over the country have started this commendable movement of music memory contests. The pieces selected are of the best and the finest music.

When children develop a taste for good music they will care little for the vulgar music, on the principle long known to psychology that "the cultivation of good habits replace bad ones."

No Says Vice-President of American Railway Express Company in Farmers' Week Address—Home Illinois.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Illiana, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Declaring that of the million dollars and more the American Railway Express Company paid out for claims during 1920, the greater part was for damaged eggs, Robert E. M. Cowie, vice-president of the company, gave a Farmers' Week audience here some practical pointers on how to pack eggs for shipment so they arrive "right side up with care" at their destination.

The American Railway Express Company, he said, has departments employing experts specializing on better handling of all express matter, particularly eggs. Many forms of educational publicity are used, reaching all classes and grades of employees. The month of March has been designated as the time to emphasize the better handling of eggs and improved methods of taking care of undelivered express matter of all kinds.

Good Fillers Needed.
He said the company feels there is much room for improvement by shippers in packing, and marking eggs. The greatest cause of damaged eggs is second-hand honeycomb fillers, he declared. They should only be used once. This type of filler was introduced thirty years ago, and improved types are now available. The company now has samples of twenty-two different kinds, many of them on the market, which Mr. Cowie feels will carry the egg with little or no damage, barring accident. Some of them cost less than the present style.

Millions of eggs are now coming from China without breakage, he said, because they are properly packed in stronger fillers and fillers are cushioned inside by rice hulls.

Packing Methods Antiquated.
Mr. Cowie pointed out that the same methods and packing practices are employed now as when eggs were 12 cents to 15 cents per dozen; they recently sold in New York city at $1.10 wholesale. Inspection in New York city shows that 75 per cent of eggs broken are improperly packed, said the speaker, and because of this transportation companies will not continue to pay claims for broken eggs unless packed according to classification requirements.

"Do not ship thin shelled eggs nor eggs longer than 2 1/2 inches," he said. "Use strong excelsior cushions in every case. Place but one mark on end of case. Remove all old marks."

ON THE JOB EVERY DAY

Red-Blooded Men and Women Are Seldom Sick.

Watch Your Blood Condition

If You Look Pale, Feel Gloomy and Run-Down, Take Pepto-Mangan and Build Up.

You see men and women who are never sick. They work hard, look robust, eat heartily and enjoy life. They have plenty of rich, red blood. That is why they are never ill.

People who try to get along with weak, impoverished blood always have a struggle. They go from one sickness to another. Children the same way.

If you keep your blood rich and red you'll enjoy full vigor. Disease has little chance to develop in healthy blood. As soon as you feel run-down take Pepto-Mangan for a while. It will feed your blood with the ingredients needed to create a good supply of red corpuscles.

Pepto-Mangan is sold in both liquid and tablet form. Take either kind you prefer. They are alike in medicinal value. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." The full name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," should be on the package—Advertisement.
